Attendees at the SSD Adventist Recovery Ministries training

SSD Adventist Recovery Ministries Training

Philippines | Southern-Asia Pacific Division (SSD)

Health professionals and health ministry directors from across Southern Asia gathered in Cavite, Philippines on March 18-21 to attend the first Adventist Recovery Ministries training for the Division. A collaboration between SSD and the GC Health Ministries, the training was instrumental in equipping leaders to launch Adventist Recovery Ministries (ARM) in the surrounding countries. According to Dr. Lalaine Alfano, SSD HM Director, addictions are a major public health issue in several countries in the region. The governments of many countries in Southern-Asia have tough laws on those enslaved by substance abuse, and they often are looking for faith-communities to provide effective resources. Drs. Reinert, Sedlacek and Alfano provided the training to nearly 100 attendees who left motivated to start Christ-centered recovery care groups that will provide support to individuals trapped by addictions.

The chair, Dr. Andre Ndaa, was ably assisted by his staff, who made the event very special and hospitable. The agenda was packed with topics relevant to WAD fields: Church Health Institutions: Creation, Role, Accreditation, Networking; planning and organizing of Health Expos; Lifestyle centers: what works and how can sustainability be fostered? Breathe Free 2/ Five-day Plan to Stop Smoking, Youth Alive, Faith Community Nursing and Recovery Ministries in the African context; and the results and opportunities for collaboration with AAIM in the prevention of AIDS and care of its victims. The role of the ICPA in prevention of addiction and at-risk behaviors was highlighted. The Advisory concluded with the expectation that we shall witness an "explosion of wellness" in WAD before long and with it the rapid and effective proclamation of the gospel.

TED Union Health Ministries Directors Summit

Budapest, Hungary | Trans-European Division (TED)

On May 8-10, Union Health Directors from across the TED came together in Budapest to explore priorities, share ideas and resources, and make plans for comprehensive health ministry outreach in their territories. Dr. Torben Bergland, TED HM Director, shared the mission and vision for the TED HM department, and facilitated discussions on best practices, challenges, and opportunities within the territory. Mental health is a major focus of the strategic plan for the division, and Dr. Bergland reported on research results on burnout among pastors describing the rates and associated risk factors. The group decided to equip HM leaders through addictions prevention and recovery by hosting an ARMin training to be held in November in the Netherlands in collaboration with GCHM.

Andrews University Focus on Health and Wellness

Michigan, United States | North American Division (NAD)

Andrews University (AU) has embarked on a health and wellness mission to become the healthiest university in the US and to help everyone live life to the fullest! The university-wide initiative, Mission: Fully Alive, has been sparking a renewed revival on campus to make health and wellness a foundational pillar of the educational experience at AU. In May 2017, AU received the "Gold Level" recognition from the American College of Sports Medicine (ACSM) for being an exercise-promoting campus as part of the "Exercise-is-Medicine On Campus" nation-wide initiative for a second year in a row. Many on-campus opportunities are available to improve personal and institutional health and wellness, such as walking meetings to replace sitting meetings, daily plank time, walks, massage, a Wellness center open to students and faculty, and even a fun attempt at the Guinness World record on sit-ups! According to Dr. Dominique Gummelt, Director for Health and Wellness, "As we work hard to move forward with our mission we are committed to inspiring not only the students, faculty and staff at Andrews University to become healthier and happier, but we also call upon every person on this planet to join in our MISSION to BECOME FULLY ALIVE!"

Every church a center of hope and health.

Balanced Living – Balanced Teaching

counteract the unbalanced information by moving so far away from it that we end up on the other extreme. It is high time we face the extreme views squarely, but let "our speech be always [be] with grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answer everyone" (Colossians 4:6).

Ellen G. White is so often misquoted, misrepresented, and even misunderstood, that people take extreme positions based on what they THINK she said. Our best course is to investigate well what she has said about these contentious matters (such as the use of eggs, milk, butter, cheese, flesh foods, coffee, fruits and vegetables together, chocolate, and the like), giving careful consideration and prayerful thought to everything we can find on the matter in her published writings, now freely available online www.egwwritings.org. Knowing what was actually written, we can speak and share from a position of fact rather than conjecture.

We can classify what was given to us by God through Ellen White into three discrete groups of instruction and counsel. The first is what she describes as the IDEAL or the BEST, most beneficial, and most highly desirable. Second is the counsel which considers and recognizes conditions that do not permit the ideal. There are exceptional situations in which there is a reasonable but less-than-ideal solution, or the best that one can do in those circumstances. Third is those summarizing or concluding statements about the matter under study. In following this method of classifying God's counsel, we do not overstate, diminish, tarnish, or undermine what may be lifesaving counsel to many, and will help us avoid becoming extreme in our own views.

- World No Tobacco Day (May 31) is an opportunity to raise awareness about the use and control of Tobacco. For this year's World No Tobacco Day 2017, the theme is "Tobacco—a threat to development." This theme demonstrates the threats that the tobacco industry poses to the sustainable development in all countries, including the health and economic well-being of their citizens. It proposed measures that governments and the public should take to promote health and development by confronting the global tobacco crisis. RESEARCH UPDATES

Share Facts with Hope and Positive Choices

Anxiety can shorten a person's life. Researchers examined data on more than 60,000 people from 10 large cohort studies in England and found that even very mild depression or anxiety raised the risk of death from heart disease by 29 percent and all-cause death by 20 percent. A randomized controlled trial investigated the effect of prayer on depression, anxiety, positive emotions, and salivary cortisol levels. Participants receiving the prayer intervention showed significant improvement of depression and anxiety as well as increased daily spiritual experiences and optimism compared to controls. Psalm 55:22 tells us to "cast your cares on the LORD and He will sustain you; He will never let the righteous fall" (NIV). www.factswithhope.org/videos/anxiety/

Children benefit from daily exercise. Researchers have found that more than 90 percent of children ages 9 and 11 met the recommended levels of moderate to vigorous physical activity recommended for children. By age 15, however, only 31 percent met the recommended level on weekdays and 17 percent met the recommended level on weekends. The researchers estimated that physical activity declined by about 40 minutes per day each year. (JAMA, July 16, 2008). Even walking for as few as 15 minutes a day provides health benefits. If your children do not exercise often, encourage family activities like bike riding, hiking, playing ball, or swimming. Planning active family events will keep your entire family fit and healthy. www.factswithhope.org/videos/children-and-exercise/

Screen exposure before bed impacts your sleep. A recent study by the National Sleep Foundation found that playing video games, checking e-mails and text messages, or watching television at night, may be depriving us from getting enough sleep. Nearly 95 percent of people questioned in the study said they used some type of electronics in the hour before going to bed, and about two-thirds admitted they do not get enough sleep during the week. Exposure to artificial light before going to bed can increase alertness and suppress the release of melatonin, a sleep promoting hormone. You can make a positive impact on sleep, mood, health, relationships, stress management, work productivity, and academic performance by making a small change in electronic use before bed. So, switch off your device and pick up a book at least a few evenings a week and have a better night's sleep. www.factswithhope.org/videos/sleep/

Investing in prevention pays off. Chronic diseases such as heart disease, cancer, stroke, and diabetes, are responsible for 7 of 10 deaths in America each year and accounts for 75 percent of the nation's health spending. Although sometimes related to economic, social, and physical factors, more often it is behaviors such as tobacco use, poor diet, physical inactivity, and alcohol abuse that lead to poor health and contribute to chronic disease. A focus on prevention in families, churches, schools and communities will not only improve health, but also save a lot of money. A report from Trust for America's Health concluded that investing $10 per person per year in proven community-based programs that promote a healthier lifestyle could save the country more than $16 billion annually within 5 years. So, let's save some money and enjoy a longer and healthier life. www.factswithhope.org/videos/financial-health
